

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

IT is unknown when Members were first summoned from Wales, but Hughes' Parl. Rep. of Cardiganshire 1849, contains a Writ ("No. 34, De Wallensibus ad parlamentum apud Eborum Venire faciendis,") addressed 18 April, 15 Edw. 2, to Edmund Earl of Arundell, Justiciary of Wales, directing him to cause 24 discreet and able persons to be chosen for "Suth Walliæ," and the same number for "North Walliæ," to attend the Parliament summoned to meet at York 2 May 1322, but no returns to this writ have been found. In the Parl. Returns, the earliest instance of their names being preserved, occurs in 20 Edw. 2, when "by writ, dated Kenilworth 8 January 1326-7, the Justiciary of North Wales is ordered to send twenty-four men from these parts, as well English as Welsh," to assist in the last Parliament of Edw. II., summoned to meet at Westminster 14 Dec. 1326, and by Prorogation 7 Jan. 1326-7, when the following were returned:—

No further Members appear to have been again summoned from the Principality until the reign of Henry VIII., when, having established the thirteen counties as at present, that Monarch further granted them, by 27 Hen. 8, cap. 26, the privilege of returning 27 Members to the Parliament at Westminster, one for each county and county town, with the exception that Monmouthshire was allowed two, and Haverfordwest one, while the county town of Merionethshire was debarred separate representation. The generally received idea is that Wales did not exercise this privilege until 1541, but although the returns to the two short Parliaments of 8 June to 18 July 1536, and 28 April 1539 to 24 July 1540, have unfortunately been totally lost, yet, judging from other evidence, it may fairly be inferred that the Principality did actually return Members in 1536 and 1539, as well as the English counties, although the names are not preserved in either case. So matters remained until the Reform Act, 1832, when a second member was granted to the shires of Carmarthen, Denbigh, and Glamorgan, and the towns of Merthyr Tydfil and Swansea were each allowed a representative, thus increasing the total to 32, while the Reform Act, 1867, gave a second member to Merthyr, and the third Reform Act of 1885, disfranchising the Boroughs of Beaumaris, Brecknock, Cardigan, Haverfordwest, and Radnor, gave five members to Glamorgan and an additional member to Monmouthshire and Swansea, thus bringing up the number of representatives to 34. During Barebone's Parliament, 1653, six members were appointed, not elected, for Wales, and one for Monmouthshire, while to the Commonwealth Assemblies of 1654 and 1656, each shire returned two members except Merioneth which sent one, and Monmouthshire three. Cardiff was the only borough represented in 1654, and Cardiff and Haverfordwest in 1656, while Swansea was allowed, pro hac vice, to send a member to the Assembly of 1659. By Act of Parliament, 35 Henry VIII, cap. 2, Welsh members were to receive the same wages as English members, namely, four shillings a day for the Knights of the Shire, and two shillings a day for Burgesses, and soon afterwards the various boroughs rated for this purpose, were allowed to share in choosing a member as well as the shire town. Many were the petitions arising from this system.

During the 350 years or so of its representation at Westminster, Wales has continually shewn a wonderful preference for members of its own nationality, scions of its ancient county families; and although the extension of the franchise in 1832 and 1867, made some changes in this respect, notably in the boroughs, it remained for the general election of 1885 to effect such a complete revolution of affairs, as happened at that date. Taking a general survey of the Principality, with which Monmouthshire is blended with inseparable ties of relationship, kindred, and feeling, it is interesting in the highest degree to observe the really remarkable manner in which the various old county families, supplying the Members of Parliament, were connected together, not only the same families representing the same constituency for many generations, as frequently happened, but also extending their influence over several constituencies, in different counties, forming by ties of kindred or marriage, a perfect network of relationship. A reference to the Index will at once shew the enormous influence of the many branches of the great Herbert family, who contributed 41 members, and after their time, arose in North Wales the great house of Wynnstay, which furnished many members for the counties of Denbigh and Montgomery, and the boroughs of Beaumaris and Flint, while in the South, the Tredegar family sat for the shires and boroughs alike of Monmouth and Brecknock, and, to a lesser extent, other families followed suit. Moreover, when one county failed to find a suitable member within its own borders, it had only to step across to the adjacent county to borrow a representative, and even then the member usually possessed a landed interest in both counties, of which there are instances in the cases of Denbigh and Flint, Brecknock and Radnor, Carmarthen or Cardigan and Pembroke. In nearly every instance where a borough has chosen a stranger from England, (which the counties seldom did), some satisfactory reason has been found for doing so, such as a marriage relationship, or at least, intimate friendship with some great local landowner.

Wales has been represented by many noted personages, distinguished in one way or another. It seated Sir Heneage Finch and Sir Simon Harcourt, both afterwards Lord Chancellors, at Beaumaris and Cardigan, and found seats for two Cabinet Ministers, rejected elsewhere, Sir James Graham at Pembroke 1838, and the present Duke of Devonshire at Radnor 1869. A Prime Minister, Robert Harley, Earl of Oxford, sat for Radnor 20 years, while 3 other Speakers of the House, Sir John Puckering, Sir Wm. Williams, and Sir Thomas Hanmer, were chosen for Carmarthen, Beaumaris, and Flintshire. Other members of various Governments, some Privy Councillors or in the Cabinet, were Francis Gwyn, John Jeffreys, Thomas Morgan, Sir Charles Gould, Bragge Bathurst, Charles Wynn, Lord Granville Somerset, John Nicholl, Sir G. Cornwall Lewis, Lord Aberdare, and Sir G. Osborne Morgan, while several others held junior appointments at the Treasury or Admiralty, or occupied positions in the Royal Household. Lord Stalbridge has been Chief Ministerial Whip, a position filled at the present day by Mr. Thomas Ellis. Of sailors there were Sir Sackville Trevor, Sir Robert Mansel, and Thomas Mathews; of soldiers, Sir Thomas Baskerville, Sir Henry Bagenal, (slain in Ireland,) Lord Windsor and his brother, General Rooke, Sir Thomas Picton, (who fell at Waterloo), the Marquis of Anglesey and his brother, and several Somersets; of lawyers, Sir David Williams, Hugh Hughes, Sir Wm. Jones, Sir John Vaughan, and Robert Atkins; of ambassadors, Sir C. Hanbury Williams, Fulke Greville, Sir John Stepney, and Sir Arthur Paget; of scholars and antiquaries, Sir John Price, Thomas Phaer, Humphrey Lloyd, W. W. E. Wynne, and Octavius Morgan; of civilians, David Lewis, Sir Edw. Carne, Ellis Price, William Awbrey, Griffith Lloyd, and Sir John Herbert. Many of the Members sat in the Council of the Marches of Wales, whilst others became Welsh Judges. In Queen Elizabeth's reign some of the Members were clergymen, while the gentle poet, George Herbert, afterwards took Holy Orders, and so did Henry Glynne. Sir Hugh Middleton constructed the New River, and his brother was Lord Mayor of London. Others achieved fame in a less enviable mode. Sir John Perrott, Lord Deputy of Ireland, was condemned for high treason, a fate shared by Sir Gelly Meyrick and Algernon Sidney, who both suffered death on the scaffold. Three Members, Sir John Danvers, Thomas Wogan, and Col. John Jones, sat upon the trial of Charles I., and earned the opprobrious epithet of "regicide," Col. Jones being hanged, drawn, and quartered at Tyburn. One Member, Richard Pryse, "died of obesity," two died on the day of their election, one died in the House of Commons, and two in a debtor's prison.

During the times of the Civil War most of the Members for Wales were staunch Royalists, and for their loyalty were "disabled to sit," by the Parliament. Of such were Lord Carbery, Col. Bodvel, Sir Herbert Price, Sir Walter Lloyd, Sir Henry Vaughan, Col. Wm. Salisbury, and Sir Philip Warwick the historian, while Col. Wm. Herbert, Capt. Charles Price, and Sir Nicholas Kemeys were slain in battle, fighting for their King. On the other side were the Parliamentary Colonels, some risen from the ranks, or taken from behind the counter, who under the Commonwealth ruled Wales with an iron hand, Carter, Twisleton, Jones, Dawkins, Watkins, Ellice, Clerke, Berry, and Phillips; while other noted men were their lawyers, John Glynne and Wm. Foxwist, Richard Cromwell the Protector, Edw. Lawrence the President of the Council of State, and Jenkyn Lloyd the Protector's chaplain.

In later times two Members, Mr. Charles Wynn and Mr. C. R. M. Talbot, have enjoyed the position of Father of the House of Commons, while several others attained to great longevity. On the other hand there have been several instances where Members have been elected when under age. Of titles the Welsh Members have never been deficient. Many received the honour of knighthood, were created baronets, or were elevated to the peerage; while the Dukes of Beaufort, Bolton, Chandos, and Devonshire, the Marquises of Anglesey and Camden, and the Earls of Abergavenny, Anglesey, Oxford, Pembroke and Montgomery, Leicester, Lisburne, Essex, Verney. Nottingham, Talbot, Dunraven, Clarendon, and Cawdor, have at different times represented Welsh constituencies.

Of contested elections Wales has had its share. There was opposition at Denbigh as far back as 1572, double returns for Cardigan in 1601 and 1604, and several elsewhere afterwards, and although of course most of the contests and petitions occurred in contributory boroughs, yet from time to time two rival families would meet in fierce contest for a county, and the poll be kept open over a fortnight perhaps, at ruinous expense. The contest for Flint in 1734, it is said, cost £70,000. The elections for Denbighshire 1601 and Carmarthen 1831 were interrupted by rioting, and fresh elections had to be held; and the elections to the Long Parliament for the counties and boroughs of Cardigan and Carnarvon were postponed owing to the Sheriffs receiving the writs "too late for Members to be elected before the meeting of Parliament." One Member was unseated for being a Scotchman. In one instance two Brothers contested the same seat, while at another election Father and Son were rival candidates. The elections at Montgomery 1580, Carmarthen 1614, and Cardiff 1661, are unique in their way. Cardiff twice rejected a future Lord Chancellor.

The Blue Book return of charges made to Candidates at the General Election of 1892, issued from the Home Office, gave the following statistics with reference to South Wales:—

The authorities used are far too many to be completely enumerated where research extending over many years has been made in so many directions, but mention may especially be made of such standard works as the Peerages and Baronetages (Extant and Extinct) of Collins, Burke, Dod, and Foster, Burke's Landed Gentry, the Parliamentary Companions of Dod and Debrett, and other similar works; Dwnn's Visitation of Wales, by Meyrick, Fenton's Tour in Pembrokeshire, Pennant's Tour in Wales, Jones's History of Breconshire, Meyrick's Cardiganshire, Williams's Radnorshire, Coxe's Tour in, and Williams's History of Monmouthshire, Williams's Ancient and Modern Denbigh, Taylor's Historic Notices of Flint, Breese's Kalendars of Gwynedd, Nicholas's Annals of Wales, Clark's Genealogies of Glamorgan, the truly valuable Alumni Oxonienses by Foster, and the indispensable Dict. of Nat. Biography. The lists of members, of course, have been taken from the Parl. Blue Book of Returns, (supplemented and corrected by Mr. DUNCOMBE PINK's indefatigable research among independent M.S. authorities and contemporary sources), and other sources of information have been the works, on kindred subjects, of Browne Willis, Parry, and Beatson, Haydn and Ockerby's Book of Dignities, the Calendars of State Papers, and of the Committee for Compounding, and the Reports of the Historical Manuscripts Commission. It has been considered unnecessary to insert in this work any remarks at length upon the history of Parliament itself, considered as an institution, but the reader is referred to Oldfield's Hist. of Parl. Rep., which contains the old law on the subject, and to the interesting preface to Hughes's Parl. Rep. of Cardiganshire, which throws much light upon the matter of the ancient franchises in Wales, while the recent changes in this respect are too well known to need recapitulation. It has been found impossible in some few cases to identify the member at all, while in other cases only suppositions can be made, the similarity of names and the absence of dates in pedigrees rendering complete identity hopeless. As regards dates before 1752, the new system, as at present, has been adopted throughout. It has also been considered best not to attempt to define the political principles of the Members: The figures at contested elections and of registered electors are taken chiefly from such works as H. Stooks Smith's "Parliaments of England," continued by McCalmont and Rowe, and similar or contemporary sources, but in some cases complete accuracy cannot be vouched for, as different accounts vary slightly.

In addition to the ordinary Index to the Members, which contains copious cross-references, the work has been supplemented by an Index to such of the defeated candidates as never succeeded in winning a Welsh seat.

In conclusion, the writer wishes to thank those ladies and gentlemen who have so courteously supplied him with information concerning their families, and desires to tender his acknowledgments to Messrs. D. DUNCAN & SONS, the proprietors of the Cardiff Times, (in whose columns a portion of this history at one time appeared), for their courtesy in the matter. He also wishes to recognize with gratitude the information he has received on many points, from the Rev. C. WHALEY, M.A., while he is very greatly indebted indeed to the unfailing kindness and invaluable assistance of that eminent authority on Members of Parliament, Mr. W. DUNCOMBE PINK, who has been good enough to revise the earlier portion of the work.

This Assembly declared itself a Parliament 6 July, and resigned its powers to the Lord General 12 Dec. 1653." (House of Commons Journals). This was "Barebone's Parliament," so called from its Speaker. There were no elections, but the following were appointed to represent Wales:—Bussey Mansel (see Glamorgan 1679), James Phillips (see co. Card. 1654), John Williams, Hugh Courtenay, Richard Price, and John Brown.

Hugh Courtenay, whose parentage is unknown, was an active parliamentary officer, cr. M.A. Oxford 21 May, 1649, app. Dep. Gov. of Beaumaris Castle 30 Aug. 1650, received a commission "to be captain of a troop of horse of the Militia Forces to be raised in cos. Harrison. The Council subsequently ordered 19 Feb. 1656 that "Hugh Courtney be enlarged from confinement, with Maj.-Gen. Harrison," but the warrants for their release were "stayed till further orders" 7 March. How long he actually remained in custody at this time is uncertain, as there is an order 14 Oct. 1656 for "Hugh Courtney, prisoner in the Isle of Wight, to be discharged," and another order 27 Sept. 1658 for his release. On 14 July 1659 Col. John Jones requested the Committee of Safety "for Hugh Courtney who was Gov. of Beaumaris before Parliament interrupted to be Governor, "the place being now under Jones's command," but the Committee left the matter "to be considered." On 13 April 1660 the Council of State issued a "warrant to Serjeant Norfolk to apprehend Hugh Courtney and bring him in custody before the Council, and the next day ordered the Serjeant by "another warrant to receive into custody in Lambeth House, Adjutant General Wm. Allen and Hugh Courtney for endeavouring to debauch some of the soldiers from their obedience, and otherwise "suspected of being dangerous to the State;" and on 19 June 1661 Secretary Nicholas ordered their release from the Gatehouse, on security of £1000 to leave the kingdom within 15 days and not to return.

Richard Price, of Gunley, co. Montgomery, was the elder son of Edw. Pryce of Gunley, m. (1) July 1640 Mary dau. of John Trotman of Peers Court, co. Gloucester, and (2) Rosamond (Mrs. Pryce), was commissioned as lieut. Rd. P. by the Committee of both Houses 23 Sept. 1645 to take charge of some recruits at Reading, fought as a captain at Denbigh 1646, app. with others to "totally demolish" Montgomery Castle 15 June, 1649, was a county commissioner for the Advance of Money for cos. Montgomery, Merioneth, and Denbigh in 1649, had a commission from the Council of State as captain of a troop of Horse (Militia) for N. Wales 13 Aug. 1650, was app. a Commr. of Sequestration for N. Wales 18 Feb. 1650, and mentioned 24 Oct. 1650 as the "Treasurer of the moneys got in," and the Commrs. for Sequestration in London wrote to him and Edward Vaughan (see co. Montgomery 1647), 19 Sept. 1650,

"We commend your diligence, go on in seizing estates." He was assigned official lodgings 15 June 1653, was High Sheriff of co. Montgomery 1639 and 1652, and commissioned as Col. Richard Price 11 Aug. 1659 to command "all the companies of volunteers, besides two troops of militia horse" in N. Wales, and enjoined "to execute his trust faithfully." On the restoration, being regarded as a specially active and dangerous character, the Secretary of State issued an order from Whitehall 18 July 1660, "that Richard Price of Aberbechan, co. Montgomery, be taken into safe custody," and in 1665 a warrant was issued to Sir Rd. Ottley Knt. to apprehend him and others.

Wales 12 Sept. 1650, added to the High Court of Justice 25 June 1651, app. by order of Parliament a member of the Council of State as "Capt. Radnor in Aug. 1649, and Capt. John Williams of Bromyard app. 10 May 1650 Agent and Sequestrator to the County Committee of co. Hereford, which office he held in July 1653).

John Brown of Little Ness, Salop, was a member of the County Committee for Salop in 1650, but was fined £20 on 3 Dec. 1650, "for neglecting to bring in his account, which he is ordered to do within a month, meantime he is suspended from acting," was one of the six members for Wales July to Dec. 1653, was assigned official lodgings in Dennis Bond's house 8 July 1653, and died before 9 June 1654, on which date the London Committee of Sequestration ordered the Salop Committee to summon his executor to pay in £300 13s. od. due to the State. (Perhaps the same as John Browne app. 10 Sept. 1650 Lieutenant of the second troop of Dragoons to be raised by Major Thos. Rippon, and app. 19 Aug. 1651 Captain of a "troop of Dragoons to be raised out of the horses seized for the service of Dragoons," and to whom and Capt. Thomas Milward a warrant for £90 was granted 23 Aug. 1651 "for paying and discharging dragoons, and for their charge and trouble in raising them.") John Brown's son Thomas married Mary Gough cousin to Thomas Baker of Sweeney, Salop, M.P. 1653, and was left Sweeney by that gentleman in 1675. From the Browns the Sweeney Hall Estate passed by marriage to the Parkers, and from them to the Leightons.

Anglesea 1654-5, 1656-8, and Jan. to April 1659, and d. 12 May 1667, aged 48, and was bur. in Clynnog Church (M.I.). He distinguished himself as lieut.-col. at the siege of Denbigh Castle 1646, was one of Gen. Mytton's Commrs. for receiving its surrender 14 Oct. 1646, was then made Gov. of Denbigh, and from that date until the Restoration in 1660, ruled the town with a firm hand. He had himself sworn in a capital Burgess of Denbigh, and the same day el. one of the Common Council 29 Sept. 1648, alderman 1648—9 and 1650, but was disfranchised 1660, when he retired to Clynnog, and lived in seclusion for the rest of his life. The "Mannours of Landegla, Witherin, and Meliden with other lordships, mannours, and lands" were sold by the Committee for Compounding to Col. John Jones and Col. Twisleton for £3797, 25 March 1650. His petition on behalf of himself and the other Commissioners for the ejection of Scandalous Ministers and Schoolmasters in Wales, was referred to the Treasury Commrs. to report 17 Aug. 1655. He had official lodgings assigned him 1654 (see Cal. State Papers 11 May 1655), and was ordered with others, 27 Nov. 1655, to examine the petition of the well-affected of Haverfordwest, concerning the election to office of a malignant, and other similar matters. He and Col. James Phillips petitioned Parliament on 2 Sept. 1654, 23 May 1655, and 1 Feb. 1656 respectively for an abatement of the assessment of co. Cardigan, and in each case half the assessment was respited. Quære the same as Jenkin Lloyd employed as a messenger by the Council of State 1650 and 1651, to whom £20 was ordered to be given 2 April 1650 for the charges of his journey to Youghall with letters to the Lord Lieut. of Ireland; who was app. by the Council 17 March 1651 to go specially to "Scotland to see the Lord General Cromwell, and inform himself as to his health," and who was given £10 more 28 March upon his return "in consideration of his expedition in that service."

Col. Phillipps was the eldest son of George P. of Tregibby (H.S. 1605), born 1594, matric. at Jes. Coll. Oxford 16 June 1610 at the age of 16, m. (1) Frances dau. of Sir Richard Phillips Bt. of Picton, co. Pemb., (2) 1647 Katherine (who d. Hector (see Cardigan 1679) are said to have acquired unenviable notoriety as very active Commrs. of Sequestration in S. Wales, and were both Commrs. for securing the peace in cos. Card., Carm., and Pemb. in 1655. James Phillips was added to the High Court of Justice 25 June 1651, served for years as a member of the Committee for the Army, being ordered a salary of £300 a year 15 May 1656, (to date from 24 June 1654 when he must have first been so appointed), and was re-app. to the Committee 20 Aug. 1657 and 3 June 1658, and seemed to have been one of its most active members. He was assigned the official lodgings lately occupied by Sir Henry Vane 27 June 1653, and app. 27 Nov. 1655 one of the committee to examine the petition of the "well affected of Haverfordwest," concerning municipal offices. "He was "one that had the fortune to be in with all tymes, yet thrived by none; hath done much good, and is "ill rewarded by those he deserved most of." (M.S. 1661 Camb. Reg.) His wife was styled "the Matchless Orinda" in the literary world, and her poems were several times published.

1656. Aug. Col. James Phillips again, and Col. John Clark of Kensington, Middlesex. The latter was an active officer of the Commonwealth, was a Captain in 1651, app. M.P. for Suffolk and also one of the six members for Ireland July 1653, was returned to the English Parliament Aug. 1654 as one of the two members for the three cos. of Derry, Donegal, and Tyrone, being then Gov. of Londonderry, and sat till Jan. 1655, was el. for cos. He was a prisoner in the Gatehouse on 17 Dec. 1660, at which date he petitioned the King for his release, stating that he "was imprisoned on suspicion of treason, of which he knew nothing, nor had he in the least misdeemeaned himself."

1656. Nov. 12. James Lewes again, vice Phillips who elected to serve for co. Pemb.

1659. Jan. 6. Col. James Phillipps again.

1660. July 11. Sir Richard Pryse Bt. of Gogerddan. Eldest son of above Sir Richard Pryse Knt. and Bt., (see 1646,) whom he succ. as 2nd Bart Oct. 1651, was H.S. co. Card. 1655, M.P. Pryse, a young gent. not of full age in the tyme that the discovery of principles was most dangerous; and it is conceived he hath not as yet any that he is too much obliged unto. He ran through several publique offices under all Governments that have been from 1652 to this time, but probably more by the direction of his father-in-law Mr Bulstrode Whitlocke, than by his own desires." (M.S. 1661.)

1661. April 17. John Vaughan of Trawscoed. Eldest son of Edward V. of that place, (H.S. 1618, who d. 1635,) b. at Trawscoed 13 Sept. 1603, "matric at Ch. Ch. Card. until 22 May 1668 when he was raised to the bench as Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, was Knighted May 1668, cr. a Serjeant at law 20 May 1668, and presided over the Court of Common Pleas with great dignity and legal acumen until his death 10 Dec. 1674, when he was bur. in the Temple Church, London. Chief Justice Vaughan who refused to take office under the Commonwealth, was a great friend of the learned lawyer John Selden, who made him one of his executors. He was the author of the Reports of Cases decided in the Common Pleas 1665-74, and his portrait was painted in Guildhall, London. "To great abilities this "respectable Judge united a strong attachment to the English constitution, which prevented his being "too great an advocate for the prerogatives of the Crown." On his petition to the King July 1660 complaining that during the Commonwealth he "was plundered, obliged to compound and restrained in his profession as a lawyer, for his loyalty," he was app. Steward of Mevenith and 4 other royal manors in co. Card. (Cal. State Papers.) In the above mentioned M.S. 1661, he is however severely handled;—"John Vaughan,—One that will upon fits, talke loud for Monarchy, but scrupulous to wet his finger to advance it. He was named by H.M. one of the Commrs. to attend the treaty in the Isle of Wight, but refused it; personally advised Cromwell to put the crown on his owne head, personally assisted the taking of Aberystwith, a garrison then kept for his late Majesty. These services kept him from sequestration; bore offices in the late several Governments. He is of good parts, but puts too high a value on them; insolently proud and matchlessly pernicious; by lending £800 to Col. Philip Jones and other favourites of the late tymes, procured the command of the county he liveth in, to continue in his friends and descendants to this day." Information was laid against him as a delinquent 29 June 1648.

Bishop Burnet said he was a man of great integrity, had much pride, but did great service, and was "one "of those who preserved the nation from a very deceitful and practising Court, and a corrupt House "of Commons." He was nominated a Knight of the Royal Oak 1660, having an estate of £1000 a year.

Sir Carbery was the eldest son of Carbery Pryse of Gogerddan, by Hester dau. of Sir Bulstrode Whitlocke, and nephew of Sir Richard P. (see 1646,) succ. his uncle Sir Thomas as 4th Bt. on his Gogerddan Estate of such immense value as to obtain the name of the Welsh Potosi. Sir Carbery thereupon procured an Act of Parliament to enable him to form a company, which commenced working the mines, but was opposed by the old Society of Miners Royal, and a lawsuit ensued, pending which Sir Carbery and his partners, among whom were several noblemen, obtained another Act of Parliament, empowering all the subjects of the Crown of England to enjoy and work their own mines in England and Wales, notwithstanding they might contain gold and silver, provided the King and those who might claim under him might have the ore, paying the proprietors for it upon the bank within 30 days after raising, and before its separation from the lead. Sir Carbery himself is said to have conveyed the news of the passing of this Act, from London to Escairhir within 48 hours, by means of relays of horses, and bonfires were lit on the hills, amid other signs of great rejoicings in the county.

The vote was strongly opposed in the House, and it is recorded that Sir Robert Mansell was appealed to by several members who wished to be informed whether the money had been recommended by the Council for War. During two days' debate Sir Robert held his peace, feeling that, being a member of what in those days was equivalent to the present Cabinet, he ought not to divulge private counsels, but ultimately he was pressed so hard by his fellow-members that he unburdened his mind, and admitted that for many months he had not been summoned to the deliberations of the Council of War because he had opposed the policy of the King and propounded a plan of his own, which had been rejected. This disclosure still further encouraged the Opposition, and their resistance led to the Parliament being suddenly dissolved; and when the next was summoned Sir Robert retired to his seat in Glamorganshire."

He received the thanks of the House of Commons 12 Aug. and 10 Oct. 1644, and afterwards marched into South Wales, "and so important were his services deemed that upon the passing of the self-denying Ordinance in 1645, Sir Thomas Middleton was one of the few members of parliament in whose favour the Ordinance was relaxed, and he was ordered to remain in military command." He was app. by parliament Dep. Lieut. for co. Denbigh 2 July 1646, but took no part in those extreme measures which culminated in the trial and execution of Charles I., and being a staunch Presbyterian, was with the greater part of the members forcibly secluded from the House by Col. Pride and his soldiers in the famous "Purge" of Dec. 1648, while a garrison was put into Chirk Castle "of which he could not get rid till he had given them a bond "of £20,000 and other security for his good behaviour, upon which they gave an order for the withdrawal "of their garrison 16 May 1651." In 1659 Sir Thomas promised his assistance to Sir George Booth in his premature rising at Warrington in Cheshire, when the Rump Parliament resolved 9 Aug. 1659, "that Sir George Booth, Sir Thomas Middleton (with others named) being in Arms against the Parliament and Commonwealth and all their Adherents and Partakers, are Rebels and Traytors to the Commonwealth "and shall be proceeded against as Rebels and Traytors." The rising was speedily put down by Gen. "Lord" Lambert, to whom Chirk Castle was surrendered 24 Aug. 1659, and on 27 Aug. the Rump resolved "that Chirk Castle be demolished, and the Lord Lambert is to see it demolished accordingly." "This resolution however was not fully carried out, owing to the King's restoration following soon after, "but the damage done to the building and its contents were not repaired for less than £30,000, and Sir Thomas estimated his losses in the earlier years of the war at £45,000." "In Feb. 1660 Gen. Monk "enforced the return of the surviving members of the House who had been excluded in the Purge of "Dec. 1648, and Sir Thomas once more took his seat at Westminster as M.P. for Denbighshire," and it was ordered 27 Feb. 1660 that Sir Thomas Middleton and his son "and the other persons who were taken "upon the surrender of Chirk Castle have their liberty, and that the sequestration of their estates be "suspended." Sir Thomas was app. Cus. Rot. of co. Denb. 31 Aug. 1660, nom. a Knight of the Royal Oak 1660 (estate worth £600 a year), and was again M.P. co. Oxford 7 June 1616, aged 15, B.A. 1619, adm. to the Inner Temple Nov. 1637, m. He was an active supporter of the Parliament, during the Civil War, and on being driven out of co. Denb. whence "he had to cut for his life" fled to Pembroke, and, as Major Simon Thelwall, assisted Col. Rowland Laugharne in driving Lord Carbery and the royalists out of co. Pembroke 1643, was cousin to Col. Wm. Salisbury, Gov. of Denbigh Castle, and was one of Gen. Mytton's Commrs. who received the surrender of that place 14 Oct. 1646, was app. a Commr. for co. Denb. under the Act for dealing with "Scandalous Ministers" 1642, and to manage co. Denb. May 1648, and was one of the Committee for N. Wales in June 1648. In the Calendar of State Papers appears 25 Jan. 1655 the petition of Col. Simon Thelwall, Colonel of Horse in N. Wales, that £800 should be paid him, on account of his arrears of pay, and the Council of State ordered 27 April that Col. Twisleton having £900 or so of sequestered money with him, should pay it over to Col. Thelwall. He was added to the Commrs. for N. Wales, for ejecting scandalous ministers from their livings, by order of the Council of State 13 April 1658, and seems to have been sworn a burgess of Denbigh.

Col. Carter was the second son of Thomas C. of Denton, Bucks, b. 1619, and is said to have been apprenticed to a linen-draper, probably in London, but during the Civil War left the counter for the army, where he distinguished himself as a most active Parliamentary officer, and as Lieut. Col. Carter, second in command, he landed in Pembrokeshire Aug. 1644 with forces sent from London to reinforce Gen. Middleton and marched to join his army in co. Cardigan, afterwards accompanying him to North Wales, and was one of Gen. Mytton's Commrs. to receive the surrender of Carnarvon Castle 4 June 1646. He married Elizabeth dau. and co-heir of David Holland of Kinmel, and having settled at Kinmel, became one of the most powerful men in Denbighshire, was adm. a capital burgess of Denbigh between 1654 and 1659, app. a Commr. for pious uses for the use of the Corporation 17 Nov. 1648, was ordered by the Committee of both Houses to continue Governor of Conway Castle 17 July 1647, received a commission from the Council of State 18 Aug. 1651, (being then Gov. of Conway) to raise a Troop of Horse, was app. a Commr. of Sequestration in N. Denb. 1665, and d. 25 Nov. 1676, aged 57, bur. in St. George's Chapel, Denbigh. The country people who execrated his memory as a rapacious oppressor and petty tyrant, averred that he compelled the heiress of Kinniel to marry him by force, and it was sarcastically said at the time that he betrayed his former occupation by choosing the "best piece of Holland" in the County. (Taylor's Flint.)

1656. Sept. (3 members.) Major-Gen. James Berry, John Nicholas of Llanmelan, and Edward Herbert of The Grange.

Edward Herbert was a prominent supporter of Cromwell in co. Mon. which he represented Sept. 1656-8 Jan., but little more can be gleaned about him, except from some references in the Cal. State papers by which it appears that he was app. a member of the High Court of Justice 25 June 1651, and that on 4 Sept. 1655 he was in possession, (probably by lease from the County Commrs. of Sequestration,) of The Grange and other lands in co. On 10 Nov. 1661 Sir Robert Mason wrote from Kingsclere, co. Glouc., to Secretary Nicholas, saying: "The person whom he has taken into custody is Edw. Herbert, late of the Grange, near Magor, co. At the restoration he went abroad, but receiving pardon, a pass was ordered to be sent in 1661 to "Capt. Nicholas as one of those whom the King wishes to call home." (Cal. State Papers.)

General Berry, who was a friend of Richard Baxter, and appears to have been a man of some principle, was a clerk in some ironworks in Salop, at the outbreak of the Civil War in 1642, but joining the parliamentary forces, distinguished himself as an active soldier, and speedily attained to great power in the army, was Captain Lieutenant under Oliver Cromwell at the battle of Gainsborough 28 July 1643, distinguished himself at the battle of Preston, chosen by the army President of the Council of Adjustors in the disputes between the Army and the Parliament in 1647, and app. to suppress an intended rising in Nottinghamshire 1655, and made one of the 12 Major Generals instituted by Cromwell March 1655, and placed in command of cos. He was elected M.P. for cos. Mon., Hereford, and Worcester 1656, but choosing the latter, represented it till made one of the Protector's House of Lords as Lord Berry 10 Dec. 1657, was app. one of the sub-committee on the business of the Fens 28 June 1653, and served upon numerous committees. He joined the cabal against Richard Cromwell April 1659, was added to the Council of State by order of Parliament 9 May 1659, app. one of the Council of State ordered to exist from 17 May to 1 Dec. 1659, was a member of the Committee of Safety and for the nomination of Officers July to Oct. 1659, (attended 11 meetings out of 16 in July,) was one of the Committee for Dunkirk Sept. and Oct. 1659, one of the Parl. Comms. for governing Ireland 1659, and app. by the Army a Commr. for the same purpose Jan. 1660. He was cashiered with the other Generals by Parl. 12 Oct. 1659, but on the army gaining the upper hand, was nominated by the army 28 Oct. 1659 one of the council of 10, to constitute the Committee of Safety, and for nominating Officers. Being suspected with other officers of designs against the Council, he was ordered by them "to repair to his house" 9 Jan. 1660, and a further order of the Council was made 14 Jan., "that he be secured for disobeying." He was attainted at the restoration, and being regarded as too dangerous a foe to be left at liberty, remained under restraint for years in one prison or another. On 18 May 1662, a warrant was granted to the Lieutenant of the Tower "to receive Col. Berry into his custody, and keep him close prisoner." On the 25 July following another warrant issued to the Governor of Scarborough Castle, "to receive Col. Berry into custody for treasonable designs," and he was so received 30 Aug. 1662. Secretary Nicholas wrote to the Gov. of Scarborough Castle (Sir Jordan Crossland,) 14 April 1664, requesting that Col. Berry "be allowed so much liberty as may conduce to the benefit of his health," and in Oct. 1667, Berry, who was then the only prisoner in the Castle, addressed a letter to the Governor, saying that he "hoped after nearly 8 years imprisonment and damage suffered in his estate, that he might have had liberty without making any tacit acknowledgement of guilt, or having any character put upon him. Has been passive in his sufferings hitherto, and shall endeavour to continue to do so, and not trouble him any further." Whether he continued a prisoner until his death is uncertain, but his friend Baxter, in his Antobiography, relates that on being released "he became a gardener, and lived in a safer state than in all his greatness." Another authority identifies him as second in command at Newton Butler in Ireland in 1689, and gives his death as taking place 9 May 1691, but this appears very improbable. (Dict. Nat. Biog.)

1656. Nov. 26. Nathaniel Waterhouse of Westminster, vice Berry, who el. to serve for co. Worc. He was M.P. co. Mon. 1656-8, and Monmouth Jan. to April 1659, and was of the great family of Waterhouse of Halifax, and of kin to Sir Edw. W. Chancellor of the Exchequer in Ireland temp. Q. Eliz. and to Edw. Waterhouse LL.D. an antiquarian and ethical writer of London. He is frequently mentioned in the Cal. State Papers as Steward of Oliver Cromwell's lands 1651-8, and although sometimes styled his servant, undoubtedly occupied an important fiduciary position, and he served Richard Cromwell in the same manner 1658-9. In 1651 Parliament granted Biddlesdon Manor, Bucks, (part of the Duke of Buckingham's sequestered estates,) to Nathaniel Waterhouse and John Thurloe in trust for the wife and children of Henry Ireton, Lord Deputy of Ireland. Report by the Committee 25 Aug. 1659, that "Nathaniel Waterhouse, servant to Richard Cromwell, should be authorized to sue the persons in annexed list for the amount due for mourning for the funeral of the late General Oliver Cromwell, £19303 os. 11d."

Being high in favour at the Court of the Stnarts, he carried the Queen's Crown at the coronation of James II., and was the means of obtaining a new charter for the borough of Brecon in 1686. On the accession of William and Mary, he refused to take the oath of allegiance to them, and retired from Court, when his lieutenancies were conferred upon the Earl of Macclesfield. His Grace, who was patron of several livings, and presented to Llanbedr 1661, Crickhowell 1668, Llangattock 1661 and 1675, and Llangynidr 1678, all in co. Brecon, was Gov. and Captain of Chepstow Castle in 1661, and d. 21 Jan. 1699. He was assessed at £5000 by the Committee for the Advance of Money 17 Nov. 1645, and information was laid against him 6 Jan. 1651 that "he rode armed in Oxford garrison, was at the King's quarters at Newent near Gloucester, with his father, when the King's party besieged Gloucester, till the siege was raised, when the King reviewed the troop in which he rode." I do hereby authorise you to seize him. He is "a man, I am informed, full of craft and subtlety, very bold and resolute, hath a house at Llangibby well "stored with arms and very strong."

He was again returned, apparently without further question, to the next parliament, and he seems to have been adm. to Gray's Inn 9 March 1620, being then one of the Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber to James I.

1625. May. The same.

1626. Jan. William Fortune. Of a Monmouthshire family. A Wm. Fortune, possibly his descendant, was Receiver of the Land Tax for co. Mon. in Jan. 1748. (Nicholas however gives Wm. Fortescue.)

1628. Feb. 21. William Morgan of the Middle Temple, London, (see co. Mon. 1640.)

1640. April 2. Double return of William Watkins of Westminster, and Charles Jones, the Recorder of Beaumaris, (and quære, also Recorder of Monmouth.) The matter does not seem to have been settled as the parliament was dissolved 5 May 1640. The latter was the same as the member for Beaumaris March 1640, and being at this time returned for both constituencies, "had not yet made his choice," 16 April 1640 (Cal. State Papers.)

William Watkins was a Parliamentary officer, (quære H.S. co. Brecon 1649, as of Sheephouse,) and built Penyworlodd House in the parish of Llanigon, co. Brecon 1651, sat for Monmouth April to May 1640, and Oct. 1640-4 when the election was declared void. "He was an active partizan and a principal "agent of the Propagators and resided at Penyworlodd until his death, when he left a number of coats of "mail, and other armour." He seems to have risen to notice under the patronage of the powerful Col. Philip Jones, see Glam. 1654, (to whose Will he was witness 15 April 1673,) as the Cal. State Papers contains a complaint made by the Breconshire Committee 29 Oct. 1651 to the Committee for Compounding in London, that they had been obliged to fine Watkins £20 for contempt in refusing to deliver up books and papers, and charging the late Sequestration Commrs. for S. Wales for the previous two years with letting sequestered estates at extreme under values. Furthermore, on 2 Dec. 1651 articles were brought by Wm. Jenkins of co. Carm. against Wm. Watkins and other late Commissioners, alleging that "Col. Jones "who had but £7 a year but has purchased estates worth £1000 a year, and his servant or officer under "him Wm. Watkins (who has been Sub.-Commr. two years and a half,) has bought estates worth £200 a "year. They are all Jones's creatures." Wm. Watkins was appointed a Sub-Commr. of Sequestration in S. Wales 7 Feb. 1650. He was one of those members at Oxford who signed the loyal Letter to the Earl of Essex in the interests of peace 27 Jan 1644, but afterwards changed sides. He was living at Court Colman, Glam., on 4 Sept. 1681.

1640. Oct. 15. (The Long Parliament.) Double return of William Watkins and Thomas Trevor of Enfield, Middlesex. The whole election was declared void 29 Nov. 1644, and no fresh writ ordered till 18 Nov. 1646. Thomas Trevor, the only son of Sir Thomas T. Knt. of Trevalyn, co. Denb., Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, m. (1) Anne dau. of Robert Jenner of London, and (2) Mary dau. of Samuel Hortrey of Kew, was knighted between 1640 and 1647, cr. a Bart. Heref., sat for Monmouth 1646-53, and Gloucester 1656-8, and d. 1693. "He was servant to Mr. Townshend, an attorney of Stapes Inn in 1642, Receiver of the King's rents in cos. Glouc. and Wilts, Clerk of the Peace for co. Glouc. worth £200 per ann., and Capt. of Foot and Horse." (Mystery of the Good Old Cause, 1660.)

Davenant's "Prince d'Amour," a Masque presented by the Society of the Middle Temple for the entertainment of the Elector Charles 24 Feb. 1635. On the breaking out of the Civil War he joined the King's side, and was present during the siege of Oxford, where he was knighted by Charles I. 28 Sept. 1643. The year before he had built his new house, "The Argœd," overlooking the Wye, and to shew boldly which side he belonged to, had place a large device of the Royal Arms wrought in iron over the entrance. It has remained there to the present day. In Symond's Diary he is mentioned as one of the chief inhabitants of Monmouthshire, and as one of the entertainers of the King during his sojourn in South Wales in 1645. He married Magdalen eldest dau. of Sir Chas. Williams Knt. of Llangibby (see co. Mon. 1621,) and sister to the last member Sir Trevor W., and sat for Monmouth 1661 until his death 6 Jan. 1677. He and his father compounded for their estates 4 May 1649, were fined at one-sixth, £679 on 31 May, and ordered "to be discharged if detained for no other cause than delinquency" 28 June 1649. The curious sundial which still stands and points the hour near Trelleck Church, co. Mon., was erected by Lady Probert, temp. Charles II.

In Nov. 1683 the Duke of Beaufort brought an action de scandalis magnatum against Sir Trevor Williams and Mr. Arnold for false and scandalous words spoken, and obtained a verdict for £10,000 damages. (Luttrell's Diary.) According to Coxe's Tour, Auditor Harley purchased Llanthony Abbey from Capt. Arnold of Llanvihangel.

1685. April 30. Charles (Somerset) Marquis of Worcester, (see co. Mon. 1679.) "As he elected to serve for another place (either co. Mon. or co. Glouc.) a new election was ordered by the House 12 "June 1685, but no other return has been found." Parliament was dissolved 2 July 1687. (Parl. Returns.) From another source however it appears that the vacancy was filled by the election in June 1685 of Sir James Herbert Knt. of Coldbrook, who was the younger but only surviving son of Henry H. of Coldbrook, (see co. Mon. 1646,) born 1645, was J.P. for co. Mon., H.S. 1679, unsuccess. cont. and pet. for the county 1667, sat for Monmouth 1685-7, was knighted 1 Aug. 1680, m. Oxon. 2 July 1585 at the age of 20, became a member of Cliffords Inn, and was called to the bar at the Middle Temple 1594, m. (settlement dated March 33 Eliz.) Elizabeth dau. of Morgan Powell of Pembroke, was H.S. co. Pemb. 1588, M.P. Pembroke 1588-9, and d. 22 Oct. 1628. On 31 May 1597 he obtained from the Commrs. of the forfeited estates of Sir John Perrott (see co. 1593. Feb. Sir Coniers Clifford Knt. Son of George C. of Bobbeny Court, Kent, m. Mary dau. of Francis Southwell, grad. The Cal. State Papers 1599 contains a letter from John Chamberlain to Dudley Carleton dated 1 Aug. saying, "Sir Coniers Clifford is intended to go to Lough Foyle with 3000 men," and another of 23 Aug., as follows:—"Sir Coniers' defeat was very foul. He was at the Curlewes in O'Donnell's country, and besides himself and Sir Alex. Ratcliffe, 8 or 9 commanders were lost, and above 240 men. Capt. Cosbie is much blamed for causing the first disorder by wheeling about, but some say Sir Coniers went not soldier-like to work, and when he saw his error, and might have escaped, would not outlive such a loss."

1597. Sept. 18. Edward Burton.

1601. Oct. 12. John Lougher. Second son of above Robert L. (ses 1572,) grad. B.A. (late of St. Mary Hall) Oxford 1594, became a student of the Middle Temple 1594, and sat for Pembroke Oct. to Dec. 1601.

1604. March 5. Richard Cuny of Lamphey H.S. co. Pemb. 1615, M.P. Pembroke 1604-11. He was probably father of Capt. Walter Cuney a Parliamentary officer under Col. Rowland Laugharne in co. Pemb. in 1643. In the Blue Book the name of Thomas Roberts, merchant, is also inserted, as in a double return, but this seems to be an error, as he was M.P. for Poole.

1614. March. Walter Devereux. Son of Robert 2nd Earl of Essex, b. 1591, matric. from Queen's Coll. Oxford 16 Nov. 1604, aged 13, knighted 2 Sept. 1617, M.P. Oxon. 23 Oct. 1590 at the age of 14, became a student of the Middle Temple 1595, M.P. Pembroke 1620-1 when uns., and May to Aug. 1625, and Haverfordwest 1624. He was uns. on petition 18 May 1621, apparently owing to a double return, and a new writ ordered the same day, but was probably re-elected.

1624. Feb. 2. Sir Walter Devereux Knt. again.

1625. May. Lewis Powell again.

1626. Jan. Hugh Owen of Orielton. Son of John O. and grandson of Sir Hugh Owen Knt. of Bodowen, Anglesea, and Orielton, (by Elizabeth dau. and sole heir of George Wyrriot of Orielton,) was made a J.P. for Anglesea 19 March 1642, M.P. During the Civil War he twice changed sides, and was app. a Militia Commr. for S. Wales 14 March 1654. Information was laid against him 19 April 1648, that "he sat with the junto at Oxford, left home when the county was under the obedience of Parl. and went to Anglesea, then in obedience to the King," and further information 18 July 1649 that "he gave the late King £800, sued out his pardon under the Great Seal of Oxford, and then lived in N. Wales, till most of the garrisons were reduced to obedience. That he countenanced Poyer, and had him continued Gov. of Pembroke till his revolting, and after he was proclaimed traitor by Parl., sent him provisions during the siege. That contrary to the order for malignants to leave London, he was in town all the last insurrection, and did not help the Parl. army in the siege of Pembroke. That he was excepted from the Act for a general fine for S. Wales, because he was sequestered for acting with Laugharne and Poyer, and from Anglesea articles, because he did not surrender in Feb. 1646, and corresponded with Gerard. That his house is a refuge for notorious delinquents, and that he now harbours Laugharne's wife in his house in Dean's Yard, and she is constantly railing against Parl., though she received much favour from the Lieut. Gen. when in the county. Request that his estate in Anglesea worth £1000 a year, may be sequestered, and that the State may not be moved by his deceitful allegations, trying to excuse himself."

1628. Feb. 25. The same.

1640. March 9. Sir John Stepney Bt. of Prendergast. Eldest son of Sir John S. whom he succ. as 2nd Bt. 1634, and grandson of Sir Alban S. (see Haverfordwest 1572.) m. The matter was never determined, as the Committee was sitting at the dissolution 22 April 1659. The former was the 2nd son of Henry L. of Stackpole, and bro. to Sir Roger Lort Bt., m. Pemb. 1649-50, app. one of the Parliamentary Commrs. to demolish Castles in co. Pemb., and app. one of the Committee to examine the petition of the well affected of Haverfordwest 27 Nov. 1655. His character is thus given in a manuscript written about 1661. "He hath nothing of his first name but the Jawes, and "hath with that destroyed as many ministers as the other Philistines, both for the same ends, hates the "Church, hugges the profit of it; he can pray as long as there is profit, no penny, no pater noster; he "believes man to be sibi soli natus." (Camb. Reg.) Information was laid against him, before the Committee for the Advance of Money 12 Feb. 1649, charging him with secretly favouring the royal cause, but his discharge was ordered 15 March 1649, the Committee being satisfied that he had taken part against Poyer and Langharne in the late rising, and Parliament having pardoned all in S. Wales 26 Feb. 1649.

Becoming however dissatisfied with his position, he joined Col. Poyer in his rising 4 May, and was defeated at St. Fagan's 8 May 1648, then fled to Pembroke, which surrendered to Cromwell 11 Oct. 1648, when he was tried by court martial and condemned to death with Cols. Poyer and Powell, but Poyer alone was executed 1649. He was however sent to the Tower, and banished April 1649, was excepted out of the Act of general pardon for S. Wales and co. An alleged act of cruelty committed in his official character as Gov. of Trinidad involved Gen. Picton in tedious litigation and great expense, with the result however of completely vindicating his character as a just and humane man. The Duke of Queensberry offered him a present of £10000 to pay his legal expenses, which he respectfully declined, and when the inhabitants of Trinidad voted him the sum of £5000 for the same purpose as a token of their entire approval of his conduct, he took an early opportunity presented by the outbreak of a disastrous fire on the island, to return that sum, which he handed over to the fund raised to assist the sufferers from that calamity. Soon afterwards however his uncle left him a large sum of money, with which he bought an estate in Wales. He took part in the unfortunate Walcheren expedition, and was made Gov. of Flushing on its capture 1809, had £5000 left him by the Duke of Queensberry 1810, became Major-Gen. Picton left London on 11 June, and took command of the Fifth Division, and was wounded at Quatre Bras 16 June. Two days later "the right hand of Wellington," at he was styled, found a soldier's death on the historic plain of Waterloo, shot through the head, when leading a desperate charge of his infantry against a solid square of French cavalry, at the end of that memorable day. "In Lieut.-Gen. Sir T. Picton," said the Duke of Wellington in his Despatch, "His Majesty has sustained the "loss of an officer who has frequently distinguished himself in his service, and he fell, gloriously leading "his division to a charge with bayonets, by which one of the most serious attacks made by the enemy on "our position was defeated." Above all pain, all anger, and all pride,
The rage of power, the blast of public breath,
The lust of lucre, and the dread of death."

An affray took place 2 Oct. 1693 in the streets of New Radnor between Col. Thomas Lewis of Harpton (the aggressor,) and his bro. Nourse Lewis on one side, and Robert Harley on the other, in which swords were drawn on both sides.
